

Relax.

There is plenty to do.

The Isles of Scilly are just 28 miles off the coast of Cornwall and are officially recognised as an area of outstanding natural beauty.

Explore the secluded beaches or swim with seals. Go kayaking or hop between the islands by boat and if all the fresh air gives you an appetite why not stop for some lunch with a view or take a winery tour.

Travel to the islands by Skybus from Land's End airport or sail on Scillonian III from Penzance and the journey will surely be as memorable as the destination.

Every activity comes with a stunning view.

These stunning islands are fringed with sandy secluded beaches and criss-crossed with miles of trails and paths, and are close enough to visit for the day.

Life here moves at a slower, more natural pace. Ramble from the beach to a cosy bar and enjoy slow cooked, local food or watch grey seals playing in the crystal clear ocean. Every single moment is one for you to delight in and remember.
